GEORGE WASHINGTON'S FAMILY.

Some Interesting Facts.—Probable Origin of the American Flag.

[St. Louis Republican.]

The Washingtons were North of England people, who some time lived in Durham, then in Lancashire, and finally in Northamptonshire. It is safe to go back to the reigns of the Seventh and Eighth Harrys for a founder, and we find him in Sir Thomas Kitson, one of the great merchants who developed the wool trade. The first of the family to settle in the rich pasturage of the midland county of Northampton was Lawrence Washington, whose mother was a Kitson. Lawrence was a barrister, but gave up his profession of the law for the good and ancient reason, perhaps, that though he was bred to the law, the law was not bred for him, so he retired to the country to look after his uncle Kitson's flocks of merinos. Lawrence must have been a man of some significance, for he was made mayor of Northampton, and when Bluff Hal raided the monasteries, Lawrence being identified with the cause of Reformation, came for his share of what in vulgar purlance might be called a "swag," in other words, the King made a grant to him of the monastic lands of Sulgrave. Near this was Althorp, the family seat of the Spencers, and the Lady Spencer of that day was the daughter of Sir Thomas Kitson, and consequently the first cousin of Lawrence Washington. The rector of the parish was Dr. Layton, who was Lord Cromwell's prime commissioner for the dissolution of monasteries, by which we reach another cause, in addition to this blood relationship to the Spencers, of why the lands of Sulgrave should have been given to Lawrence Washington.

For three generations the Washingtons held Sulgrave, taking rank among the nobility and landed gentry of the country, but after that their fortunes waned. Sulgrave was sold, and the family retired to the parish of Brington, under the care and patronage as it were of poor relationship of the Spencers. Prosperity, however, came to them here quickly, and it came in a way to prove their respectability of their lineage. The eldest son of the family married the half-sister of George Villers, duke of Buckingham, and thus we see the Washingtons intermarrying with two of the best family in all England. The Washingtons who emigrated to America in 1657 was the grand-father of the hero who sleeps on the banks of the Potomac. In 1852 he was knighted by James I., and it is known that he was on the most friendly terms with the Spencers down to the very eve of the civil war. In the struggle the Washingtons drew their swords for the king. Sir Henry Washington held the storming party at Bristol, and defended Worcester. Sir Henry held the rank of colonel, and was a man so noted for his bravery that it became a proverb in the army when a difficulty arose: "Away with it," quoth Washington.

In Brington church are two sepulchral stones, one bearing the date of 1616 over the grave of the father of Washington, the emigrant, in which his arms appear impaled with those of his wife. The other stone covers the remains of his uncle, and presents on the bass the simple family shield with the crescent appropriate to a younger brother. We have before us a transcript of this shield, and from it we are constrained to believe that the United States flag as seen now very certainly took its origin. In this shield are five horizontal stripes, of alternate gules and white, as are those of the national flag, while the three stars in the upper stripe have the parallel peculiarity of being five pointed. All this may not be of interest to those who care very little whether George Washington had a grand-father or not, but then again there may be others who will not think any the less of the Father of the Great Republic because his ancestors fought against Cromwell and his Ironsides to keep Charles' head upon his shoulders.

Happy Husbands.

It is a man's own fault if he is unhappy with his wife, in nine cases out of ten. It is a very exceptional woman who will not be all she can be to an attentive husband, and a more exceptional one will not be very disagreeable if she finds herself willfully neglected. It would be very easy to hate a man who, having bound a woman to him, made no effort to make her happy; hard not to love one who was constant and tender; and when a woman loves she always tries to please. The great men of this world have often been wretched in their domestic relations, while mean and common men have been exceedingly happy.

The reason is very plain. Absorbed in themselves, those who desired the world's applause were careless of the little world at home; while those who had none of the egotism strove to keep the hearts that were their own, and were happy in their tenderness. No woman will love a man the better for being renowned or prominent. Though he be the first among men, she will only be prouder, not fonder, and if she loses him through this renown, as is often the case, she will not even be proud. But give her love, appreciation, kindness, and there is no sacrifice she would not make for his content and comfort. The man who loves her well is her hero and her king. No less a hero to her though he is not one to any other; no less a king thoug his his only kingdom in her heart and home.

A Puzzled Newspaper.

The Salem (Mass.) Post sometime ago printed the following puzzle:

P. R. S. Y. R. Y. P. R. F. C. T. M. N. V. R. K. P. T. H. S. P. R. C. P. T. S. T. N.

The puzzle is to find a single letter, which, being inserted, shall make a rhyme of these letters. The solution is as follows: "Persevere ye perfect men, Ever keep these precepts ten." It is not a very obstruse puzzle, but it has plunged the Post into an abysmal depth of trouble. The Post, when it printed the puzzle, promised to send a copy of the paper for one year to any one who should solve it. It now explains that it intended to offer the prize to the "first one" who solved it. But it has, from the unlucky day when it admitted that puzzle into its columns, been overwhelmed with "answers," and with demands for the paper in accordance with the promise. No single clerk—no number of clerks—is able to answer all these letters and explain the error into which the Post was betrayed; and it prays the press generally to give publicity to its statement, and aid in its relief.

In her last budget of gossip from Paris, Lucy Hooper says one of the most charming entertainments of the season was recently given by General and Mrs. Sickles in their superb abode on the Rue de Presbourg. It was a breakfast party to celebrate the christening of their youngest child, a daughter about six weeks old. The lovely little lady, who already gives promise of inheriting the charms of her beautiful Spanish mother, received, after the Spanish custom, a veritable litany of names, beginning with that of Ida. A numerous party was assembled to await the return of the family from the church, including most of the prominent members of the American colony. Mrs. Hicks, the fair widow whose charms are said to have made such havoc in diplomatic quarters in London, was attired in a superb costume of black silk and velvet and jet embroidered lace. Mrs. General Torbert wore a dress of two new shades in silk, called peach and peach-kernal, the latter being a delicate rose-tinged shade of pale brown. Mrs. Washburne was in black silk and jet, and her black lace bonnet was decorated with a single white camelia. Mme. Garcia wore a costume of a rich shade of reddish violet, profusely trimmed with velvet. Mrs. Sickles' dress was of black silk and lace, the skirt trimmed with bands of orange-colored silk.

—A little girl braids the hair of one who sat in front of her, instead of studying, when the teacher remarks: "Home is the place for arranging hair, not here. What would you think to see me braiding my hair in school?" Presently Susan's hand is raised, and the teacher, supposing that she wishes to ask some question about the lesson, nods, when she hears the following: "Mary says your hair is false, and that you wouldn't dare to do it here."

A CARPET-BAG EXODUS.

The Arkansas Ring Preparing to "Git Up and Git"—New Mexico Their Unhappy Objective Point.

[St. Louis Times.]

Hon. Thos. H. Bowen, formerly territorial Governor of Idaho, but more recently an aspirant for the United States Senate from Arkansas, arrived in the city from Washington, yesterday, and has rooms at the Southern. Mr. Bowen, although he was not present, and took no active part in the late fiasco in that State between the contesting Governors, was always looked upon as in sympathy with Parson Brooks, and a member of the Clayton-McClure combination, and is supposed, and doubtless with good reason, to have supplied much of the brains to forward their schemes. He has but little hope for the hungry horde of Radical politicians from Arkansas, which are now in Washington, and which number about one hundred men of desperate political, as well as pecuniary fortunes, and whose sole occupation in the desperate straits to which their uncontrolled cupidity has reduced them, is to haunt the corridors and lobbies of the National Capitol and shadow any Republican member of Congress, who they may have reason to believe is friendly to their projects. With these men, now in Washington, it is, as it were, hoping against hope. Ruined and shattered in fortune, politically damned by the majority of the nation, socially ostracised where they are best known, they present the most pitiable sight to be met with in or around Washington to-day.

A few days ago a caucus of these men was held, when it was announced that all hope for a restoration of their detested rule in Arkansas had fled; that Republican members of both houses had given them to understand that nothing could be done for them in that State. It is said that the President has intimated his willingness to bolster up the sinking fortunes if they go West, but not in Arkansas. That was out of the question. A second edition of Louisiana would not do. The greater portion of them have made up their minds to follow Horace Greeley's advice. It is understood that many of them will emigrate to New Mexico, where they hope in the course of years to resurrect their fallen power. But the most of them have bid a long adieu to a State, whose people they have impoverished, whose resources they have squandered, whose credit they have ruined, and whose government they have made a by-word in the mouths of all honest men.

A Remarkable Funeral.

[From the New York Herald.]

In Trinity Church, the shadow of whose tall spire falls upon an ever-humming throng of busy workers and money seekers, was solemnized yesterday one of the most remarkable funeral services our record, either in the annals of the old church or of the metropolis. Major Joseph Delafield, all well and favorably known in their various professions and walks of life, were the three last of nine brothers, the issue of John Delafield, who came to this country in 1773.

Major Joseph Delafield was at the time of his death aged eighty-five years; Mr. Henry Delafield, eighty-three years, and Dr. Edward Delafield, eighty-one years. They died within three days of each other, and all of them of an affection of the lungs, but not all of pneumonia, as has been erroneously stated. Dr. Edward was ill for nearly a year and a half, and was not expected to recover.

The other brothers were seized with attacks of well defined pneumonia, and their disease was as sudden as it was distressing. It seems almost unnecessary to attempt anything in the way of eulogy of these three men, distinguished as they were. The example of their lives, noble, unselfish, upright, persevering, will live and have its effect long after their remains have crumbled into dust.

A Florida correspondent of the Springfield Republican, writing from Jacksonville, says that season is at its height just now. The National and St. James and lesser hotels are overflowing with guests, and about every other house in the little city has its quota of boarders. Newport or Saratoga isn't more remorseless in its treatment of the visitor's pocket book than this winter resort of the South; $4 to $5 a day and from $15 to $30 a week are the prevailing rates, and the ubiquitous darkey is a pestering candidate for fees at every turning of the street or hotel corridor. The standard amusements are a sail upon the river, a drive on the shell road to Riverside, promenades up and down the perennially shaded streets in the afternoon sunshine, hops at the hotels and endless flirtations, card playing and small talk. John Morrissey, with his keen scent for the gold of purse-rich, ennuted gentility, has set up his fascinating games in a wing of the St. James, and another season contemplates building a palatial club-house with all the scrupulous trappings and costly baits that prove so seductive to the young swells at his Saratoga establishment. The weather thus far has disappointed most of the Northern visitors. Instead of perennial sunshine and a dry, Indian summer atmosphere, there has been since the holidays a constant succession of fogs, gloomy clouds and chilling rains. Still, Florida has more sunshiny days than any of the rest of the sisterhood of States; and, rather than being depressed by the unusual dampness, the native Floridian, with an orange grove or a vegetable patch to cultivate, only rejoices over the favorable conditions for their growth.

Congressional.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

Senate.—The senate has been engaged on sundry civil appropriation bills all the morning.

House.—The conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill has been presented and agreed to. It contains a partial restoration of the franking privilege as to the congressional Record and other public documents up to next December, and permanently as to seeds and agricultural reports.

The deficiency bill is under consideration, and there is a tremendous pressure of business, and consequently disorder and confusion in the house.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The tariff and tax bill passed the senate after midnight without amendment, by 30 to 29, and goes to the president to be signed to-day.

The bounty bill goes to the house for concurrence in the amendment. The government is allowed to borrow money to meet the wants of the bill. There is another amendment, that soldiers shall not be charged with bounties paid them by any state, which, it is claimed, will swell the drain on the treasury fabulously.

Reduced Fares.

[By Telegraph to the Constitution.]

BALTIMORE, March 3.—The fare on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has been reduced as follows: To Pittsburg $5; to Wheeling $5½; to Connecticut $6; to Indianapolis $7; to Louisville $8; to Chicago $8; to St. Louis $10.

Ice Blockade.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—Great apprehensions on the Delaware valley from ice. The engineers decide it useless to attempt to remove by blasting.

MR. LELAND STANFORD, of the Central Pacific Railroad, is about to build a house in San Francisco which will eclipse in splendor the magnificent residence lately erected by Mr. Sharon, the newly elected senator from Nevada, who, by the by, actually resides with his family in San Francisco. Mr. Stanford's house will be 134 feet square on the ground, and the largest private residence in California, and will be furnished inside and outside in the most elaborate and expensive manner. In the meantime the people of the whole country are annually taxed to pay the interest on the bonds of Mr. Stanford's railroad.

The Whole City of Covington to Be Gobbled Up.

[Covington Star.]

On Monday morning last the ordinary of Newton county and the mayor of Covington were served with notice by the counsel of Mrs. Polly Fretwell, that application would be made for a dower from the estate of Leonard Fretwell, deceased, of this county. The estate of said deceased, from which said dower is claimed, embraces all the land known as No. 354, of the original survey, and is the land upon which the whole city of Covington is built. It seems that Leonard Fretwell sold said lot of land to the inferior court of Newton county, in 1822, and gave the court his warranty title to the same, but his wife, it appears, did not join in the deed, and so, as the law then stood, did not relinquish her right to dower in the land. Leonard Fretwell now being deceased, his widow comes forward and claims her dower out of the property then transferred by her husband to the inferior court. The case is rather a complicated one, and we cannot, at this time, give an intelligent opinion as to its merits; but as the Hon. B. H. Hill is the able counsel engaged in the case, we feel safe in expressing the opinion that much litigation is likely to grow out of these proceedings. The county of Newton however, must stand between this claim for dower and the present owners of the property, as they derived their titles originally from the inferior court of the county. We shall have more to say on this subject hereafter.

Buffet.

[By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

PARIS, March 3.—Buffet has had an other conference with MacMahon.

—Gath writes concerning Senator Jones that he resolved not to marry a second time and was living in bachelor style in Washington a rather fast but jolly life, when he invited an old friend and daughter to come and stay awhile. At the close of the season he wanted to be at Long Branch, and so the Sullivans were persuaded to go along, and there, by the sad sea waves, the voluptuous widower and sweet eighteen were engaged.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

CONSUMPTIVES, TAKE NOTICE.—Every moment of delay makes your cure more hopeless, and much depends on the judicious choice of a remedy. The amount of testimony in favor of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for consumption, far exceeds all that can be brought to support the pretensions of any other medicine. See Dr. Schenck's Almanac, containing the certificates of many of the highest respectability, who have been restored to health, after being pronounced incurable by physicians acknowledged ability. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone has cured many, as these evidences will show; but the cure is often promoted by the employment of two other remedies which Dr. Schenck provides for the purpose. These additional remedies are Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. By the timely use of these medicines, according to directions, Dr. Schenck certifies that most any case of Consumption may be cured.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, Corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

NOTICE,

OFFICE GEORGIA MANUFACTURING AND PAPER MILL CO.
NEWNAN, GA., Feb. 19, 1875.

To the Stockholders and Creditors of the above Company:

I have carried the business of this Company three years, under the crushing weight of a $10,000 floating debt, at a discount on all business done, at the ruinous rate of 2 to 2½ per cent. per month, minus any working fund, without increasing the debt, which is evidence of good property, under favorable circumstances. This property will positively be sold by the Sheriff of Carroll county, at Carrollton, Georgia, on the first Tuesday in April next. A great bargain to be had. Cost $75,000. Competition of bidders invited. All parties interested will take due notice. Four hundred acres of well timbered land. A fine stone dam, with head of water, more than sufficient for double the amount of machinery. Outbuildings good. Mill building large. 10,600 square feet of floor. Two good machines, five engines—three large, room for two others. For further information, address or call on the undersigned, at Newnan, Georgia. THOS. A. GRACE.

A SONG OF WELCOME.

by A. W. WATSON.

Rain and slush and blow and bluster,
Time is up! prepare to muster
Out your forces!
Avaunt, winter, you old plague you,
With your coughs and aigus and ague,
To your frigid den betake you;
Run your course is.

Welcome, gentle spring. Oh, welcome!
Welcome, that from hill and dell come
Sundry noises.
While the early morning ray greets
To the breeze a newer fragrance,
And a troupe of feathered vagrants
Tune their voices!

Welcome, welcome, for each pinion
That is flitting, darting in you
Wood elysian!
Welcome, for your gentle breezes
That have cured our bronchial wheezes;
That the green, which in you trees is,
Charms our vision!

Welcome, from some far unseen land;
Welcome, because your green hand
Is not icy!
Poet-license I suppose you'll
Grant to greet your breath ambrosial;
I suspect that at the close you'll
Make it spicy.

Welcome, for your warmth uncloses
All the daffodils and roses,
Pinks and tulips!
Welcome, for this bunch of mint, tied
With a blue ribbon, which a squint eyed
Maiden brought me, with the hint I'd Make nice juleps!

BREVITIES.

—Evarts, of Beecher's counsel, is the father of fourteen children.

—It is not a matter of much importance, but we don't remember ever seeing anyone buy an umbrella.

—"Which is the butt end of a goat," asks an exchange. All but the middle of the animal, we answer.

—The snow all around must have terribly hindered the mails. It's a long time since we have heard anything from Charley Ross.—Graphic.

—Rather more washing was hung out on Monday than for several weeks previous. The papers that day had no reports of the Beecher trial, on account of the adjournment.—Berkshire Courier.

—The average length of a farmer's life is sixty five years, while that of a printer is thirty-three, hence the necessity of paying for your paper promptly.—Berkshire Courier.

—An Omaha woman lifted a barrel of flour from the ground into a wagon on a Tuesday, gave birth to twins on the day following and of the same week split wood enough to last over Sunday.

—A Spanish woman's mantilla, under the laws of Spain, is sacred, and cannot be sold. When a Spanish gentleman is "embarrassed," he buys a hundred thousand dollars' worth of mantillas for his wife, and then fails honorably.

—The English propose to move street cars by clock-work. The cars are to be of the lightest possible construction, and are to be fitted with Sheffield springs, having a force of nine hundred pounds each and wound up by stationary engines.

—An inch on a man's nose is proverbially of some account, and M. Derrisart, of Paris, is likely to know of exactly what account. His nose has taken to growing lately, and grew half an inch in eight days. He is at the hotel Dieu, in Haris, and all the surgeons of France are rushing thither to see him.

—An Indiana man has sued for a divorce on the ground that his wife has hit him on one spot, on his head with a rolling pin for nineteen years, and his physician tells him that he will certainly have softening of the brain unless the woman selects some other point. She declares that she is too old to change her habits, hence the suit.

—The German civil marriage bill has been passed by 207 votes against 72. The Bavarian bishops have protested against the introduction of the new law into Bavaria. The original bill has been altered in the following particulars: "The marriageable age for men and women has been changed respectively from eighteen and fourteen to twenty and sixteen years. Marriage without parental consent is lawful when the man has reached twenty-five years and the woman twenty-four; the original bill proposed thirty and twenty-four years. An appeal can be taken to the courts in case of an unreasonable refusal by parents or guardians to give consent. An unsuccessful attempt was made to add the entry of cause of death to the compulsory registration clause. Difference of creeds between the parties, or vows of celibacy, will not render marriage illegal. Dispensations from the barriers to marriage are in future to come from the state."

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR.

SIMMONS'
TAKE
REGULATOR

The Symptoms of Liver Complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general costive, sometimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Often complaining of weakness, debility, and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the Liver is generally the organ most involved.

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

Is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

Purely Vegetable,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs, which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail, IT WILL CURE ALL DISEASES CAUSED BY DERANGMENT OF THE LIVER AND BOWELS,

Simmon's Liver Regulator,
